

Parasite General Specimen Collection

INTESTINAL PARASITE COLLECTION

To assure recovery of parasites that are passed intermittently, three specimens collected at one-day intervals are recommended. Examination for parasites should precede radiological examination using barium sulfate. Following barium examinations, it is recommended that specimens should not be collected until the stool returns to normal color. Avoid contamination with urine or water.